

plant type

- native trees and shrubs

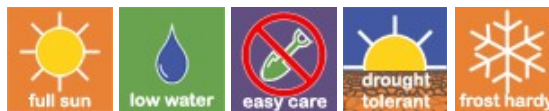

water hardiness

Westringia 'Wynyabbie Gem'

westringia 'Wynyabbie Gem'

A hybrid between Westringia fruticosa and Westringia eremicola. A hardy compact shrub with narrow grey-green to dark green leaves and small blue-mauve flowers arising from the leaf axils.

top ten

bird attracting
coastal gardens
frost tolerant
hedges, screens and windbreaks kangaroo proof
small plants for small gardens
verge planting

project type

urban and commercial
residential
erosion control

soil type and drainage

light - sandy soils
medium - loamy soils
good drainage

origin	Hybrid species.
cultural notes	Adapts to a wide range of climates and well drained soils. Prefers full sun.
maintenance	Can be pruned after flowering to maintain shape.
tolerates	Tolerant of frost, drought, salt spray and low nutrient soils.
flowering season	Year round except in extreme heat or cold.
flower colour	Small blue-mauve flowers arising from the leaf axils.
foliage colour	Narrow grey-green to dark green leaves arranged in whorls of four around the stem.
width	up to 1m
height	up to 1m
plant spacing	30cm apart
recommended uses	A very tough plant useful in many difficult situations. Often used as a native hedge.